

Last Night of the Proms 2024

Royal Albert Hall London

Saturday 14 September 2024 tbc

"The Last Night of the Proms" is a classical music concert event that takes place annually in the Royal Albert Hall in London, United Kingdom. It is the culmination of the two-month-long BBC Proms (Promenade Concerts) series, which is one of the world's largest and most prestigious classical music festivals.

The Last Night of the Proms is a particularly special occasion characterized by a festive atmosphere, with the audience often dressed in formal wear and waving flags. The concert typically features a mix of classical music, traditional British patriotic songs, and other popular tunes. The program usually includes well-known pieces such as "Rule, Britannia!", "Land of Hope and Glory", and "Jerusalem".

If you have not had the chance to fully experience this amazing spectacular event, then make sure you do so in 2024. From the very start of the programme through to the audience joining in with Elgar's Jerusalem, the National Anthem and Land of Hope and Glory, you and your clients will have an evening that will be remembered for many years to come.

“The Last Night of the Proms is without doubt one of the most spectacular and popular evenings in the world of classical music, a must on everyone’s bucket list”.

Each year the demand for tickets to the Last Night of the Proms, held at the Royal Albert Hall on the second Saturday of every September, is truly phenomenal and making this one of the most in demand event tickets in the world. Thousands come from around the world to attend and witness one the great occasions in the classical music world but only a lucky 6,000 get to attend.
