WRECK DIVING

Wreck Diving involves the exploration of shipwrecks, wrecked aircraft and other incredible natural wrecks within the marine environment.

Wrecks can be magnificent homes for reef creatures, serving as artificial reefs. Wrecks also involve the exploration of huge infrastructures with preserved machinery, something that is not normally observable on working, floating vessels to such a level of detail.

Diving into wrecks uncovers a hugely interesting history of the sunken vessels and provides a first-hand insight into the causal reasoning behind each wreck.
