The Wimbledon 2023 Finals ...

The 2023 Wimbledon Championships resulted with 20-year-old Carlos Alcaraz and unseeded Markéta Vondroušová becoming the latest winners of the iconic grass tournament singles events in London SW19.

Alcaraz, who entered the competition as the No. 1 seed in the gentlemen's draw, got past No. 2 Novak Djokovic in the final by a score of 1-6, 7-6 (8-6), 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. That was not an easy task, as the Serbian veteran was riding a 34-winning streak at Wimbledon and had not lost at the All England Club since 2017.

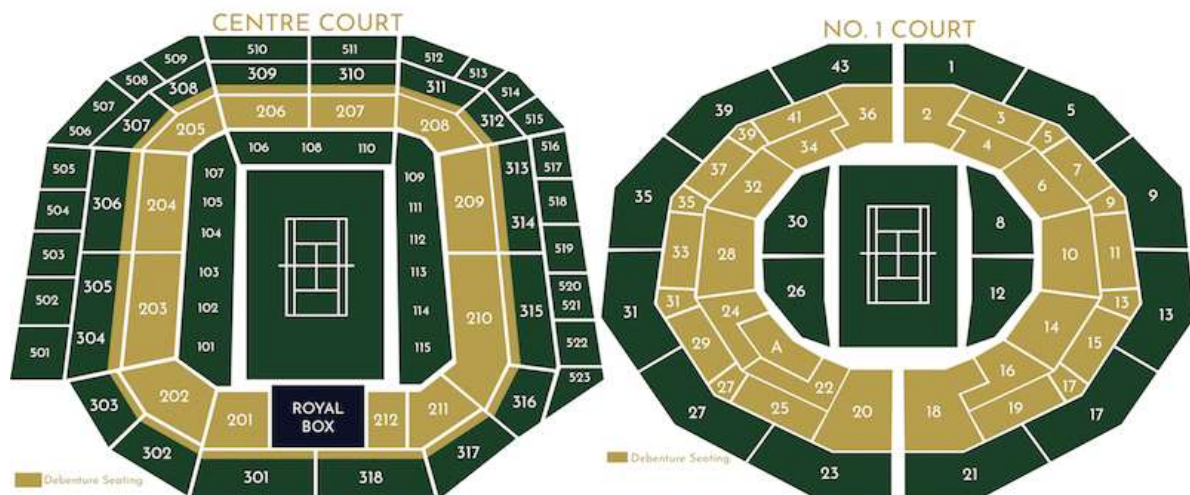

Their meeting on in the Men's Singles Final lasted four hours and 42 minutes. It was a short-awaited rematch from the French Open semi-final in June when Djokovic came out victorious in four sets. Alcaraz had struggled with cramps at Roland-Garros, but the 20-year-old stayed solid at the All-England Club to claim the second Grand Slam title of his young career.

On the women's side, Markéta Vondroušová became the first unseeded woman to win the Wimbledon singles title with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over No. 6 seed Ons Jabeur. It's only the second WTA tour win for Vondroušová, her first since 2017, who'll move to No. 10 in the WTA rankings with the win.

The two singles winners for 2023 will begin this year's tournament on centre court on the first two days as strong contenders for the 2024 event which takes place from Monday 1 to Sunday 14 July 2024.
